Add an external login

In this screen you can change your password, your email address and your security information, as well as add an external login.

An external login is yet another way for the system to authenticate you. Instead of using your username and password to login, you can add a link to your Google or Facebook accounts (by pressing the corresponding buttons).

On future logins, you could simply click on the appropriate account provider that you chose to add a link to, and the support site will get the authentications automatically.

Don't have an account? Send us the Registration form, and we'll create one for you.

On the bottom part of the login screen, you will find a link to the registration form.
